Solid show of support for hospital

by Jay Kerr-Wilson

If the Ministry of Health didn't get the message last Wednesday, it's doubtful it ever will.

That's the feeling of the organizers of the public meeting dealing with the expansion of the Haliburton Hospital.

In a solid show of community support, more than 500 people packed the gymnasium at the high school in Haliburton to tell provincial representatives how they feel about the delay in funding for the 18-bed chronic care facility.

John Eakins, MPP for Victoria-Haliburton, and three representatives from the Ministry of Health attended the public meeting to listen to concerns from the community.

And what they heard were testimonials from 22 different people, all calling for the province to make good on its 1986 commitment to partially fund construction of the chronic care facility.

The speakers came from across the county and represented doctors, the clergy, service clubs, municipalities, teachers and students. And although differing in style and content, all the speakers expressed a central theme: Haliburton County does not want another study, it wants the province to come through with the promised funding.

Eakins spoke briefly to the crowd before the presentations from the community began. He said it was encouraging to see so many people who care and are concerned about local health care services.

He stressed that he, along with the Ministry of Health representatives, were at the meeting to listen to the concerns and bring the comments they heard back to Queen's Park.

"I want to be right up front with you," Eakins told the crowd. "Yes we gave a commitment when we approved the (chronic care facility), and no, it has not been met, not as yet."

Eakins has never hidden from the fact that a commitment has been made, he said. "I don't like commitments that are made and not carried through."

Haliburton is not the only area that has had projects put on hold because of the provincial review of its previous commitments, said Eakins. "But one area is just as important as another."

The Premier appointed an independent council to advise the province on the direction that health care in Ontario should take in the future and Eakins said that evidence indicates beds alone are not the only measure. "I believe that whatever we build, we should ensure it's the right thing before the shovel goes into the ground."

Eakins provided copies of the five recommendations issued by the Premier's health council and said the focus must be on meeting the needs of the community.

Seventy-five per cent of the members of the local review committee, under the direction of the District Health Council, will be residents of the county, said Eakins. "Your views will be incorporated in the review process." He said the recommendations of the review, "must be implemented."

"Rural Ontario will not be second class," Eakins promised. He said areas like Haliburton are entitled to be served according to their needs.

However the community representatives who spoke after Eakins made it quite clear that they didn't need a review

Santa Claus is coming to Minden

The final confirmations with the North Pole have been made.

Santa Claus will be in Minden on Dec. 2 and the Lions are organizing a parade to escort him into the village in grand fashion.

Lion Bill Stackhouse made a call to the North Pole last Saturday to make the final arrangements for Santa's visit. Santa is looking forward to meeting all the kids in the area to prepare his Christmas list and is anxious to ride along with Rudolph and the other reindeer at the end of the parade.

Local businesses and service clubs are showing great support for the parade that will welcome Mr. Claus to town, said Stackhouse. At least 25 floats will make the trek through the village that afternoon as part of the first Santa Claus Parade this community has hosted.

All the floats for the parade will gather at the corner of McKnight Drive and Main Street shortly after noon in preparation for the 1 p.m. start. The parade will wind along Main Street and end up at the Minden Curling Club, where the Kinsmen will have refreshments ready for all the participants.

Immediately after the parade, Santa will be taken back through town to the Fire Hall where, with the help of his elves and the Lions clowns, he will greet the children. The doors to the Fire Hall be open from 2:30 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Stackhouse and Lion Brian Moore said they are pleased with the response from the community towards this parade. Although it is being headed up by the Lions, they say this is a community event that involves most of the service clubs and many businesses.

The parade is designed to build the Christmas spirit in downtown Minden, said Moore, "but the bottom line is a good day for the kids."

Although a deadline to enter floats in the parade had been set, the organizers say they are willing to accept late entries. Anyone interested in participating in the parade should contact Lion Brian Moore at 286-4982 during the day. Lion Bill Stackhouse can be contacted at 286-2040 in the evenings.

Council endorses request for traffic count

Minden Council is going to conduct a traffic count of the village's main street on the recommendation of the planning advisory committee.

Council accepted the recommendation at last Thursday's meeting when passing the minutes from the planning committee's October 18, meeting.

The request for the study arose out of discussion involving a severance application for a property on Babcaygeon Road, across from the Holliday-Rhodes Medical Centre.

The developers, Terry Clarke and Daryl Moore, applied to sever the property and build a bowling alley on one of the created lots.

The planning committee rejected the severance "on the basis that another entrance onto the Bobcaygeon Road just past the curve would not be safe because of the extreme traffic on this road," according to minutes of the meeting.

Later in the same meeting, the committee passed a resolution that the "Planning Advisory Committee hereby recommends to Council that a traffic study be conducted on the Bobcaygeon Road from Highway 35 to the bridge on Main Street, both directions."

The decision to turn down the severance brought criticism from the developers who felt they were being discriminated against by the committee.

At last Thursday's council meeting, Councillor Lewis Stevens questioned the committee's basis for turning down the severance and the need for the traffic study.

Stevens asked who was going to pay for the study and if it is really in the best interests of the township.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry, who sits on the planning committee, said the study was suggested in the interest of good planning. He said the committee didn't deny the developers permission to build the bowling alley, they just didn't want to see three driveways instead of one as a result of the severance.

As for the cost of the traffic study, Berry said it would be covered by the municipality. "You can't expect the members of PAC to pay for it," he said.

Stevens said now that it appears there won't be much commercial development on Newcastle Street, how did the committee expect downtown merchants to react to having Main Street curtailed.

But Berry said the street wasn't going to be curtailed.

Councillor Mike Maher said because there hasn't been a previous traffic study done on Main Street there is nothing to compare the amount of traffic to. If for no other reason, Maher said the traffic study would be useful to act as a reference point to future studies.

Stevens said because both the hardware store and the grocery store have moved off of the Main Street and on to the highway, the traffic should have decreased. He also asked why the study was necessary in the first place.

Berry said the responsibility of the planning committee is to advise council on the best way to approach planning and "not let things go helter skelter."

"It's mind-boggling why the downtown people would want less traffic," said

Stevens.

"Not less traffic - less driveways," answered Berry.

But Stevens said he hoped to see many driveways along that stretch of Bobcaygeon Road as new businesses are established. "Where else is

Main Street going to go?" he asked.

The details of the traffic study, including where the counters will be placed, are to be discussed at the next planning advisory meeting on November 16.

Utilities have capacity to spare

There was some encouraging news at last week's meeting of Minden council about the condition of the township's sewer and water capacity.

The Public Utilities Committee has reported that the sewage treatment plant has more additional capacity than originally thought.

It was also decided that by drilling an additional well and enacting a water control by-law during the summer months, water shortage problems could be alleviated.

At the November 2 meeting of the committee, chairman Ed Pergolas reported that, in the original study for the sewage treatment plant, the capacity is for 50 million gallons and designed to serve 2000 people. At present, the plant is operating at less than 60 per cent capacity.

There have been concerns recently about the sewage system being inadequate to handle any significant new development projects.

A brief report on the plant's operation also shows that it is operating well below the allowable Ministry of Environment limits for effluent.

Councillor Mike Maher pointed out that since not every house in the village is hooked up to the sewage system, it is not serving 2,000 people. He said the 60 per cent capacity is not an accurate figure when considering future developments because there are people in the village still using septic systems.

As far as the municipal water system is concerned, the committee reported that capacity usage is only occurring in July and August and the problem could be solved by drilling an additional well and council enacting a by-law restricting lawn watering.

A proposed site for the new well is on the corner of Newcastle and Lyons Streets. If this proposal is feasible then the well would be housed on the site and the water flow tapped into the present mains.

Last year the township tried voluntary lawn-watering restrictions, and although the degree of cooperation from home owners was good, there were some violations and the municipality had trouble with issuing notices about the measure.

The utilities committee also presented council with the new list of sewer and water rates for approval. They are also reviewing the frontage charge of $20.97 because it was discovered that it wasn't being charged to everyone.

Councillor Lewis Stevens credited the committee for identifying problems with the sewer and water systems and taking measures to correct them.

Township supports Santa's parade

Minden Council has thrown its support behind this year's Santa Claus parade being organized by the Lion's Club.

At last Thursday's meeting, council voted to provide the event with a $250 grant to help cover promotional costs.

Councillor Lewis Stevens is the council's liaison for the parade, and he said the Lions have the idea well in hand. There are already plans for about 18 floats, said Stevens, and there have been "good vibes" from the community.

This will Minden's first full-fledged Santa Claus parade, and the Lions are getting other groups involved so it will be a community event.

As an added attraction, children will be able to meet with the Santa himself at the Minden Firehall after the parade.

Deputy-Reeve Bern Berry said the event should be advertised on the municipal billboards in the area and suggested that local businesses should be encouraged to promote the parade on the signs outside their stores.

Never in Haliburton County has there been an issue that has sparked so much discontent as that of the province's mishandling of and indecision in respect to the promised 18-bed expansion of the Haliburton Hospital.

In no uncertain terms, the Ministry of Health and our MPP John Eakins were told last Wednesday that this county wants, needs and deserves their financial support for this project. More than 500 people crammed into the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School auditorium for two hours of relentless bombardment of the ministry's plan to turn its back on the present health care needs of this county. Twenty two passionate speeches were delivered by local politicians, representatives of service organizations and individuals, all pleading the ministry to reconsider its position.

The government is reneging on its promise—we all know that. The government wants to look at the long-term solution to our health care woes—we appreciate that, too.

But what the government doesn't seem to recognise is that by rejecting this expansion, it is ignoring our present needs. Long-term planning and alternative measures may solve this problem in the years ahead, but what are we to do in the meantime?

For three years this government has dangled the 18-bed expansion like a carrot in front of our noses while throwing up obstacles to prevent us from ever reaching it. The people of this county showed tremendous determination to finally live up to their end of the bargain only to have a new health minister with new ideas slam the door in our faces.

Almost $400,000 has already been spent on architects' fees for this project. Is the ministry now willing to write that off as a foolish investment?

Locally, we've raised hundreds of thousands of dollars to see this project through. What is to become of all this money?

There are a lots of questions, but few answers.

Wednesday's gathering was a tremendous show of support for this project. People from all parts of the county were out in force in a last-ditch effort to salvage this project. It was an unprecedented show of county unity. However, unless the ministry was willing to listen, there was nothing to be gained from this venting of steam.

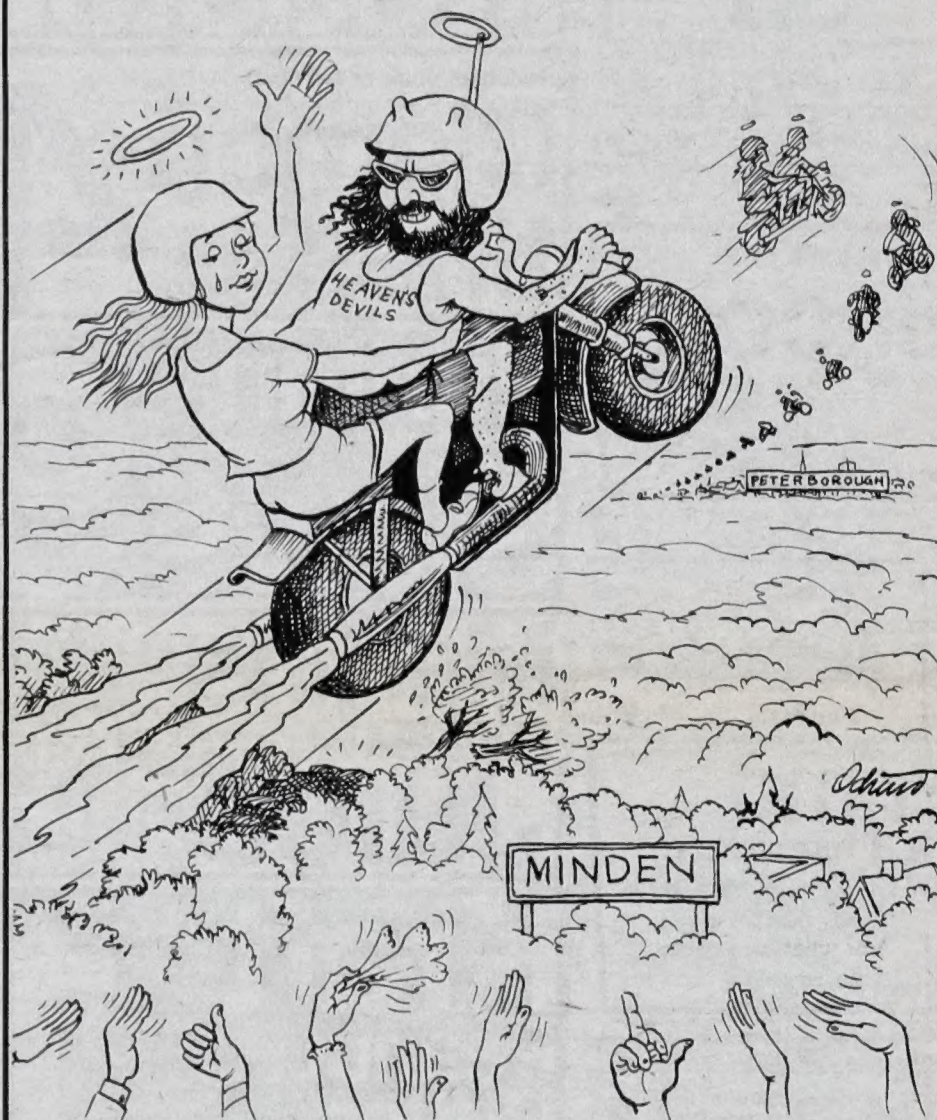

Eakins is to be applauded for his courage in facing Wednesday's angry crowd. He, for one, hasn't turned his back on us. However, so far he gets no points for his ability to convince his counterparts at Queens Park of what this county so obviously wants and needs.

Studies have demonstrated that Haliburton County needs these additional beds. Delaying their construction in favour of yet more studies will only cause the costs to further escalate.

The ministry says the addition, if built today, will cost $4-million. Another study means more squandered time and higher costs. It is also bound to show that 18 beds is no longer enough.

It is difficult to understand how anyone could be so blind to the plain fact that this county needs better health care facilities than the aging hospitals in Haliburton and Minden. This proposed expansion would not solve all our problems, but it would be an improvement.

Bye Bye Ride

Sorry to see you go . . .

What was the straw that broke the camel's back

I don't remember precisely when I snapped.

Perhaps it was when I read the interview with Saudi Arabia's official executioner who cheerfully talked of his career total: more than 600 decapitations and 60 hand amputations performed by sword on citizens convicted of various offenses. He told reporters that he feels "delighted and satisfied" because he is enforcing "the law of God". Not that it's purely a religious high, performing state-sanctioned murders. "I always look forward to the opportunity to chop off more heads so that I can earn more money" he said.

Or it might have been the story about the Bangladeshi immigrant Abdul Malik. Malik is a devout Muslim who moved England in 1952 but never quite accepted his new country's culture and mores.

Thus when his daughter announced that she had

Black 'n White

by Arthur Black

decided to become a Jehovah's Witness, he did the devout thing.

He slit her throat. She staggered outside to the sidewalk and died.

But I'm not even sure that was the straw that broke the camel's back of my tolerance. It might have been the story about the Egyptian Muslim leader who announced that all AIDS patients should be left to die. Or the news that in Sudan, they are trying to shut down a charity that looks after felons who have had their limbs whacked off by the State. Officials prefer that the amputees suffer. Otherwise "the punishment of amputation is pointless".

There's a fistful of current new stories that might have led to my conversion -- take your choice of any of dozens of Muslim-inspired and executed bombings, hijackings, hostage-takings or murders. But somewhere along the bloodstained line I put my paper down, looked out my window and asked myself:

"Why are we dealing with these brutes?"

Do I mean all Muslims? Well, I don't know. There are 860 million Muslims on this planet, but I did not hear a single one of them raise his or her voice in protest when a senile maniac by the name of Khomeini ordered the murder of Salman Rushdie

Anger turns to frustration over loss of Ride

Editor:

As local businesspeople who depend upon the influx of tourists, travellers and seasonal residents to our area to sustain us, it is hard to describe the anger which we felt when we opened the local newspaper and found out that yes indeed the Ride For Sight will not be returning to Minden.

After five years and hundreds of thousands of dollars being pumped into the local economy, the Ride For Sight has decided to go elsewhere. Sure there was concern about where some of them would camp. Yes there were concerns from some of the local citizens about noise and other matters. We are sure, though, that some sort of compromise could have been reached considering the economic benefits at stake.

While our esteemed town council debated and argued and hemmed and hawed, the organizers of the Ride got nervous and found themselves a community that was more receptive. Finally when council gave their approval to let them come here to spend their money they said sorry not this time. After five years.

After five years Minden had become the home of the Ride For Sight. It was established and then what happens, because of indecision the Ride is no more. In our opinion the whole affair has been handled in a most asinine manner.

Our Reeve makes a statement regretting the decision of the Ride organizers to go elsewhere. Well what do you expect from them? It's all too late for regrets.

Where is the priority? Instead of attracting more money to the area, council, who represent us, chase it away. Who is going to be next? The Dog Sled Derby? Why don't we chase away the tourists too? Why don't we build a fence around us and not let anyone in? If this kind of bucolic-minded thinking continues, what then?

Our anger is replaced by frustration. Obviously council doesn't give a cow patty about the local businesses who depend on these kinds of events for revenue in the slower times of the year, otherwise these fiascos wouldn't happen.

It's time to recycle those plastic bags at ASES

Editor:

I suspect that your readers have hundreds of plastic shopping bags at home and don't know what to do with them. Perhaps they don't want to take them to the landfill site because they know the bags are bad for the environment. I have a suggestion to solve this problem. There will be a Plastic Bag Recycling Depot at the Archie Stouffer School on Saturday, November 25 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Any pieces of paper left in the bag (including sales receipt) will ruin the recycling process. The bags should be turned inside out. There will be a display at both the I.G.A., Valu-mart, and the I.D.A. showing how to put your bags together. This will make it easier for us to see any stray paper.

It would be appreciated if you could pass this information on to your readers.

Matthew Heffer,
Minden.

Coverage reflects environmental concerns

For years, polls have indicated that Canadians rate the environment at the top of their priorities. Media coverage has begun to reflect this concern and now political rhetoric seems to be following suit. But so far, sadly, there is little to suggest that politicians in this country understand the dimensions of the problem and the urgency for action.

My parents always taught me we are what we do, not what we say. As kids, we used to mock people who were "all talk and no action" and we would challenge people to "put their actions where their mouths were". Today, when the environment crisis is undeniable and demands immediate massive and political action, political rhetoric can no longer be allowed to substitute for action.

Prime Minister Mulroney talks good line about the importance of the environment. He indicated this newfound political reality by appointing a rising political star, Quebec's Lucien Bouchard, to head the Environment Dept. By that act alone, he

by Dr. David Suzuki

elevated the status of the portfolio. Further, Mr. Bouchard was appointed to the Priorities and Planning Committee, that inner core of powerful ministers who oversee all government initiatives. So far, so good.

When I asked Mr. Bouchard what he views as the major environmental issue we all face, he responded immediately: "global warming". He went on to say that this greenhouse effect threatens "the survival of our species" and if we don't take immediate action, "it could lead to a disaster". These are appropriately strong words - we are in a crisis.

The major contributor to the loading of the atmosphere with carbon compounds that are leading to global warming is the burning of fossil fuels. All scientists concerned about the greenhouse effect agree that we have to wean ourselves off fossil fuels as quickly as possible. Yet, at the international conference on global atmosphere held in Toronto last year, a goal of only 20% reduction in CO2 emissions was set for the year 2004. This aim falls far short of the 50% reduction needed by the end of the century. We must immediately embark on a major program of energy conservation, put heavy taxes on CO2 producers to encourage more efficient use of fossil fuels, and go all out to find alternatives.

Burning of coal, oil and gas for energy must be on its way out as quickly as possible. Yet when I asked Mr. Bouchard why in view of his concern about global warming, he wasn't pressing his government to cancel all megaprojects such as Hibernia, Lloydminster and the Vancouver Island gas pipeline - for writing a book the Ayatollah hadn't even read.

I haven't heard any Muslim disagree with Ali Akbar Rafsanjani who, last spring asked an assembly in Tehran "Why don't you hijack planes in order to swap prisoners...or blow up factories in Western countries?"

Mister Rafsanjani also told his followers they should strive to kill five Westerners for every Palestinian who dies. "It isn't so hard to kill Americans or Frenchmen" he told the congregation, "they're all over the globe."

This was in a prayer sermon, you understand.

Mister Rafsanjani besides being a religious leader, is President of Iran.

And still we in the west are being urged not to be hasty, to practice tolerance and understanding. Last week in Frankfurt, publishers from all over the world beseeched Iran to lift the death sentence hanging over Salman Rushdie. "We would like Iran to take part in the Frankfurt Book Fair again" a spokesman said.

In the name of God -- anybody's God -- why? Parleying with Iran in this dark and evil moment in its history is like asking a rabid pit bull to shake a paw.

And not just Iran. Mohammed Gadhafi, the Middle East's most infamous two-legged pit bull, recently offered a solution to the Arab-Israeli conflict.

He thinks Jews should be sent to Alaska.

Or the Soviet Baltic states. Or anywhere.

"Let them go to Alsace-Lorraine" the Libyan lunatic declared, adding airily "We...cannot accept Jews on our land."

I repeat my question: why are we even thinking of dealing with these brutes?

Clearly a major infestation of insanity has invaded the Muslim faith and perverted whatever life enhancing principles it once stood for. Muslims have entered a black hole in their historical development, not unlike a blight called Nazism that gripped a Christian nation called Germany not so long ago.

What should we do? Wait, I suppose. Pray, if you can.

Personally, I intend to mail a small donation to the head thugs of Libya and Iran along with a personal note:

"Dear Colonel Gadhafi/President Rafsanjani: Here is a brand new Canadian loonie. Why don't you give us a call?

In a couple of centuries."

Snowdon group makes surprising progress

The citizens group has prepared a brief, expressing its concerns over the salvage yard

Snowdon Township's concerned citizens group has made surprising progress in its efforts to steer a proposed salvage yard away from their Gelert neighbourhood.

In recent weeks the group has compiled information in hopes of dissuading council from passing the final reading of a by-law that would allow Bill Linnington to set up an automobile salvage yard on his property. They have even gone so far as to suggest an alternate location which they believe is more suitable and will be available for sale.

The groups concerns and proposals are summarized in a 13-page brief that was presented to Reeve George Simmons last Thursday. The brief will be circulated to council for its consideration at a regular meeting tonight.

The group of Snowdon Township residents was formed a few weeks ago to combat Linnington's plan to set up a salvage yard on his 21-acre property just north of the Hamlet of Gelert. In that short time span, the group, chaired by Walter Griffin and Tom Dawson, has put its concerns and suggestions together into a neat package.

The group's efforts are already paying off. At Thursday's meeting, Reeve Simmons said it is highly likely that council will agree to postpone its final reading of the by-law and to pass the brief on to the township's planner for his consideration.

Linnington has been working for about two years on his plans to set up the salvage yard and the first two readings of a by-law to allow its existence were passed by council at its regular meeting last month. Council held off on the final reading of the by-law, and instructed Linnington to remove the vehicles that are already situated on his property.

The final reading was to be given at tonight's meeting. However, Simmons said it is the consensus of council members that this reading should be postponed and the document from the citizens group should be reviewed by the planner.

After establishing the citizens group, members set to work on compiling information they felt would convince council of the folly of allowing a salvage yard to be located on Linnington's property. The group held a special meeting on November 1 where they presented all this information to their own members. Council members had been informed of the meeting, but none chose to attend.

Because of council's absence from the November 1 meeting, the group prepared its written brief, which was delivered last Thursday.

Issues addressed in the brief include residential growth patterns in the area, potential health and environmental damage, pertinent zoning by-laws and amendments, provincial guidelines for the storage and handling of toxic materials, and a proposed alternative location for the salvage yard.

"We suggest the municipality investigate the possibility of entering into an agreement with Mr. Linnington to trade his proposed salvage yard for a suitable amount of acreage in the proposed industrial park," the brief states. In turn, Linnington's property could be obtained by the municipality to be developed as a residential subdivision, the brief suggests.

Snowdon township does not currently have an industrial park, but the group, with the help of Brad Bradamore, has identified a location it believes is suitable for this purpose. The location of this property is not being revealed.

Efforts to contact Linnington Friday for comment about the group's proposed alternative were unsuccessful.

The environmental concerns raised by the group make it look as though residents are overreacting to the situation, Dawson said Thursday. "People say 'you're going overboard . . . you're getting paranoid,'" he said. However, he contends that "if you're going to make a mistake, I think it's better to be paranoid at the beginning instead of saying 'I should have done something about it' at the end."

Four pages of the brief are devoted to the issue of environmental and health hazards related to salvage yards. They include a list of toxins and their effect on humans, and observations from a hydrologist.

The brief listed dozens of potential toxins that might typically be found at an automobile salvage yard. Their effects on humans include cancer, anemia, liver and kidney damage and nerve disorders.

The nature and quantity of these toxins are such that early identification is difficult. "The effects of contaminated drinking water would only show up years after and are not dramatic enough to ensure early identification," the brief states.

The possibility of these toxins reaching the water supply of surrounding residents is real, according to observations made by hydrologist Paul Podziannas, of Goldar Associates of Mississauga.

"(Podziannas') immediate response was that there could develop a definite and serious threat to the surrounding water supply and pollutants can readily move in such a soil strata," the brief states. He identified a thin veneer of sand and gravel on undulating bedrock as characteristic of this site.

According to the brief, Podziannas indicated that contaminants from the salvage yard could possibly travel to nearby water supplies in less than a year. There are 34 domestic wells in the surrounding area. "Polluted surface water could would travel down the watershed much faster, of course."

The brief says that Linnington's property appears to contain several springs which are the headwaters of the Mally Creek which runs into Fox Creek and feeds into the Drag River.

The brief also notes that there is a watercourse within about 500 feet of the north boundary of Linnington's property and there are two ponds running directly to the drag river.

If the salvage yard is allowed on Linnington's property, it was suggested that a ground water study should be done by Linnington as a show of good faith. This would ensure regular monitoring of three test wells on an annual basis, thus tracking any increases in ground water contamination, the brief states.

Rams beat Redmen in Kawartha final

A strong Kenner defense, and the loss of running back Darren Danylyshen were key factors in the Haliburton Redmen losing their bid to become the Kawartha Senior football champions.

The Redmen travelled to Peterborough last Tuesday to face the Rams, but came away on the losing end of a 18-7 score.

Haliburton tailback Darren

Danylyshen, who rushed for 175 yards in the Redmen's Kawartha West victory over Fenelon Falls, was taken out of play early in the game with a mild concussion.

The Rams opened the scoring early in the second quarter when quarterback Lee Taal hit Rob Perry with a 30 yard touchdown pass. The convert was missed to make the score 6-0.

Just two plays later Haliburton quarterback Sean Perrin connected with receiver Brent Flood. Flood ran against the tide and broke open to go 60 yards for the touchdown.

Jeff Ferreo kicked the convert to give the Redmen a 7-6 lead.

Kenner regained the lead, with what would prove to be the winning touchdown, in one of the last plays of the first half. After moving the ball up field in a series of hard runs up the middle, Taal handed the ball to Kenner running back Ray Martin who powered his way into the end-zone from the three-yard-line.

Martin added one more in the last minute of the game when he carried the ball in from the two, to give the Rams the 18-7 victory.

Chamber board addresses a wide variety of matters

by Shawn Hagerman
of the Haliburton Highlands
Chamber of Commerce

The new Board of Directors met Friday, November 3 and again Monday, November 6 to consider and pass 39 resolutions.

On November 3, among other things, they appointed Joachim Matysek as the Chamber liaison person for the Haliburton Highlands Snowmobile Club. As well, a letter was drafted and sent that day assuring the club that the chamber would continue, as it has in the past, its support and promotion of snowmobiling activities in the county.

The board, also, in order to draw upon as many resources and experience as possible at this time, appointed Dennis Casey and Chris Bishop, as Ex-officio voting board members. Dennis is a Past-President of the chamber and former manager of the Outreach Center. Chris represents The Nook and the Sir Sam's Ski Hill Complex. It was the consensus of the board that this vital winter destination point of the Highlands should be represented on our board.

Both decisions were unanimous.

At the Monday meeting Dennis Casey was appointed as Secretary and member of the Executive Management Team. Darlene Johnson informed the board that she would be unable to serve on the Executive Team and stepped down. The signing officers of the board are Lynn Stevens, President; Craig Saunders and Shawn Hagerman.

The board passed a motion that the Haliburton Chamber supports whatever steps are necessary to ensure that the Haliburton Hospital expansion be built, as promised. This motion was to be presented, if at all possible, at the Wednesday, November 8 meeting.

Lynn Stevens, also, volunteered to travel, as the Chamber representative on a five-day bus tour of southern Ontario, for Bus-Tour Promotion.

The committee structure was completed and a new committee called Environment was struck and chaired by Joachim Matysek. Members interested in serving may contact him at Sandy Lane.

As well, that day, the pressing need to re-open the MTO licence bureau was resolved. Craig Saunders resigned as director and was appointed as Interim Manager for a period of 90 days. Shawn Hagerman assumed his duties as treasurer. He will be leaving immediately for North Bay to train on the MTO computers. He will form part of the transition team to train the new permanent MTO clerk, receptionist and manager. Jenny Rendall has volunteered to assist by contributing her personal holiday time as an office staff this week. She will assist Risa Bacon, who is already at the chamber office on a temporary basis. The chamber apologizes for any inconvenience at the MTO desk, but has resolved to reopen it as soon as possible.

The board would also like to thank all those who have called or contacted us with offers of support and help. We look forward to your assistance with the coming year.

Novices have trouble on the road

The Tri-County Novice B team only seems to be able to win on the road.

They played host to Millbrook on October 28 and were trounced 9 - 0. The next Saturday they played Manvers at home and again were beaten 7 - 0.

Sunday, they were on the road with a 1 p.m. game in Beaverton. Although Beaverton had a fairly strong team, Minden came out on top 5 - 0.

First period showed goals from Stephen Ecclestone and B.J. Redner assisted by Richard Brohm and Michael Hamilton. The second period had one goal, popped in by Mitch Johnson, unassisted. The third period had two more goals.

The first one by Shawn Casey, assisted by Ecclestone. At the 0:37 mark, Mitch Johnson knocked in another one assisted by Casey and Ecclestone.

Although the score was one-sided, Beaverton did a good job of keeping our guys on their toes.

Minden's Post Office is not lost

The move to establish a retail postal outlet in Minden does not mean the village will be losing its post office, says Laszlo Szabo, a community affairs representative with Canada Post.

The postal corporation is seeking to expand its services in Minden by opening a retail postal outlet in the village. Szabo says this move is part of the corporate project to make products and services more available through longer hours and more convenient locations.

"The opening of a retail postal outlet in Minden in no way signals the closure of the existing corporate post office," Canada Post said in a news release dated Nov. 6. "Rather, this outlet would increase convenience for customers by offering the full range of postal products and services in a convenient location with extended hours, often including evenings and weekends."

Moves of this nature are sometimes viewed by the public as the first step towards the closure of the post office, Szabo concedes. However, he said this is not the case in Minden. He said this is a growing area and the creation of a retail outlet is an expansion of the present services.

The location of this retail outlet is yet to be determined. businesses are invited to apply for the opportunity to provide this service, said Szabo. Depending on how many interested businesses there are, it could be several months before this new service is established.

Once it is in place, the outlet will provide the full line of services, including the sale of stamps and money orders.

Szabo said that in some areas retail outlets also provide lock boxes for mail pick-up. However, he is not sure that this service will be available in Minden.

The news release from Canada Post says retail outlets improve business for local merchants through increased customer traffic and strengthen the business base of the community.

Over the next five years, Canada Post plans to increase the number of outlets where the public can purchase postal products or services by 33 per cent.

Retail postal outlets have a solid record of satisfaction among both customers and the local retailers who operate them, it says in the news release. "Retail postal outlets are definitely a benefit to the community," it says.

Anderson nets hat-trick in Novices tie with Woodville

Ryan Anderson netted the hat trick as Minden returned from Woodville with a 4 - 4 draw in recent OMHA Novice A action.

Chris Nielsen scored on a breakaway for his first goal of the season, to give Minden the lead early in the third period, but they couldn't hold on.

After defeating Sunderland 5 - 2 and Fenelon Falls 2 - 1, Minden remains undefeated in their first three games of regular season play.

This is the first season for these boys in OMHA competition, and there has been some question in how they would fare. It seems that it could be a very hopeful and enjoyable year for the players, coaches and parents involved.

Minden's next action was scheduled for Saturday, November 11 vs. Ops at 1:00 p.m.

Committees are key to success

Lutterworth plans to follow Cardiff's winning pattern

Cardiff's success in addressing its needs for industrial land and fire protection will be emulated by Lutterworth Township.

Noting the progress that Cardiff has made towards establishing its own fire department and industrial park, Lutterworth Township Reeve Carol Puffer is encouraging her council to follow Cardiff's pattern.

At a recent meeting, Lutterworth Council agreed that its environment and economic development committees should be expanded to encourage more public participation. It will be inviting people interested in these issues to sit on the committees in the new year.

In an interview with The Times, Puffer said it appears that solid committee work has been the key to Cardiff's progress. She said she met with Cardiff's Reeve and Deputy Reeve to discuss these issues that the two municipalities have in common and hopes that by copying Cardiff's pattern, Lutterworth will see equal success.

"I wanted to find out how and why they were so successful," said Puffer. "Cardiff seems to have it together," she said. "We have to do the same things for Lutterworth."

Protecting the environment is the key issue throughout the highlands, said Puffer. In order to do a thorough job, input from interested individuals is important.

Lutterworth already has an environment committee that is made up of Puffer and Deputy Reeve Jim McMahon. Council hopes that other interested residents will come forward to offer their time and talents to expand this committee.

The reason for the expansion of the Economic Development Committee is twofold. This committee, which is headed by councillor Maurice Boyd, is set up to address a variety of issues, chief of which are the industrial park and fire protection.

Boyd has made surprising progress in preparing Lutterworth's industrial park, located on Highway 121, ready for development. Puffer believes that by adding people to his committee, the pace of that progress will proceed even faster.

Fire protection, which has been a trouble spot for Lutterworth in recent years, also falls under the Economic Development Committee's umbrella. Lutterworth is now one of two municipalities in the Highlands that buys its fire protection from neighbouring municipalities. Cardiff used to be in the same boat, but has now managed to set up its own fire department.

Puffer said she is impressed with Cardiff's ability to get away from the inherent problems of buying fire protection. Without its own fire department, Lutterworth has no control of the costs, and there are no guarantees that services will be available when they are needed.

For Puffer, establishing a fire department in Lutterworth "would be like dying and going to heaven." Lutterworth's reeve admits that the progress in her township on these issues is behind that experienced in Cardiff. However, she hopes that before the end of this council's term they will have something to show for their efforts.

"We have two years to try to do something progressive and I hope that it will happen."

For Your Service

A poem of friendship

by Bev Fomenko

When I first moved to Minden, I knew not a soul
When I first walked down Main St. I thought, what a hole

But now I'm here four years, I walk with head high Say goodday to the vendors, and all who pass by This town is so friendly and caring you see
I have spread these fine words, to my whole family
Now with heads very high, Main St. they walk too
And they love our fine town, just as much as I do
So my poem is a thankyou, for your smiles and gooddays

And before I forget, one more point I must raise.
The Kinette Club of Minden, is a fine place to be
We put a lot into our own community
We work hard, that is true, but we make time for play
The gals are all great, please come join us one day.
We'd all love to see ya!, and maybe you might Enjoy it so much, you will join in our fight
Our cause is a good one, our fight is CF
And with more members fighting, we'll beat it to death
So please come and join us, we greet with big smiles
Sit down and relax, just let go for awhile
Now is the time for my message to end
Thankyou Dear Minden, you are a good friend.

On behalf of the Kinette Club of Minden I would like to thank this town for their support on Demolition Derby weekend and a special thanks to the following people. Russ Paul for donating the tire for our chuckwagon. Kin Ken Fountain and Rick Lichty for their time and patience repairing the chuckwagon. We would never have made Demo without you. Thanks.

YOUR CO-OPERATION IS GREATLY APPRECIATED!

Stamp Fuels retains flawless record in men's league

Four weeks into the season, Stamp Fuels is still clinging to its perfect record and holds a one-game lead over Home Hardware in the Minden Men's Recreational Hockey League standings.

They didn't have an easy go last Monday though, as the league leaders faced off with the Rockcliffe, barely fighting off a third period rally to come away with a one-goal advantage.

The loss drops the Rockcliffe back into a tie for fourth place in the standings with only the winless Westside team trailing them.

Lawrence Loughheed led the attack for Stamp Fuels in the final game of last Monday's action at the Minden arena. He scored three goals to help boost his team to the 9-8 victory. Craig Crowe added two goals, which brings his season total to 11. (Along with The Times Ivan Ingram, Crowe is the league's leading goal scorer.) Greg Carpenter potted two goals for Stamp Fuels in this game, while Daryl Ward and Exon Gravel each scored one.

Miffed at Postal costs

Editor:

I was more than a little miffed this past week, to say the least. I received an express letter from the States which required an immediate answer. The sender provided me with an envelope which had postage on it for thirteen dollars. When I took my letter to the Post Office, I was informed that the postage was no good (it being American) and that it would cost me twenty dollars to send. Altogether the transaction cost thirty-three dollars and I was damn good and mad. Incidentally, our envelopes are smaller than the ones from the States so I had to take the whole thing apart. Surely something should be done to end this frustration. Maybe if the Politicians would get their heads out of the sand long enough to stop haggling over mundane things and try to help the poor people (who put them in office) we might not feel so frustrated and angry with what we have to go through in our every day lives.

Yvonne Guida,
Minden.

Time to make a choice

Editor:

I have been following the articles regarding the development of "Mount Minden" for some time now.

It has always been my feeling that someone in politics, (municipal, provincial or federal) must be "clean" or give the appearance of "being clean". Based on that opinion, I am having a great deal of difficulty in understanding how one can be Reeve of a municipality and also a developer. Even excusing himself from the Chair and leaving the room when the said development comes up for discussion does not eliminate the fact that he is privy to information that the ordinary Joe/Jane does not have.

This whole situation reflects badly on all the council members. It also makes the township and county lose its credibility.

I think it's time for the Reeve to decide which he wants to be — Reeve of the Township or a land developer. He can't do both honourably at the same time.

Francine Newton,
Minden Lake.

Buchard's remarks shocking

multibillion dollar investments in a dinosaur industry - he replied that "jobs in those regions are critical"; "those decisions are already made and irreversible"; "we cannot annihilate the past, we have to start from the present with what is possible".

Bouchard's remarks are a shocking demonstration of the distance between what politicians say and what they are prepared to do. In essence, he is saying we must weigh the survival of our species against jobs and past political decisions - and that jobs must in the end win out. Does this make any sense at all? We saw a similar glaring inconsistency during the last election. While Mr. Broadbent proclaimed that the NDP is the leading party on environmental issues, he simultaneously proposed to reduce gas prices at the pumps. The juxtaposition showed he didn't understand the environmental problems at all: his initiatives were political opportunism.

When I asked Mr. Bouchard for evidence that his party was serious about putting a high priority on the environment, he replied "Our budget wasn't cut!" Federal and Provincial Environment Departments have always been low priority portfolios, underfunded and understaffed. In a time when their budgets should be increased severalfold, we're supposed to rejoice that Bouchard's wasn't cut.

Let's face it, government is still preoccupied with issues like Meech Lake, economic growth and our relationship with the United States. We continue to approach environmental issues as separate problems that can be dealt with along standard bureaucratic subdivisions that pay little attention to each other. Thus, Mr. Bouchard can worry about global warming while his fellow cabinet members pursue often contradictory priorities. And Mr. Bouchard, a political rookie, must slug it out with heavyweights like Michael Wilson and Joe Clark.

Until the Environment Ministry becomes the dominant portfolio that subsumes all else, we will continue to act as if the survival of mankind must still be subservient to other political priorities such as language rights or jobs. It's time the public started demanding that our "leaders" show leadership, vision and courage, and by their actions show that they mean it when they say they care about the environment.

News from Staannworth

From poem "En Avant Mes Amis"
Old winter now, can do his worst
At least we saw him coming first
And you'll not find us 'down in mouth'
You see, tomorrow - we go south.

Our October meeting was spent largely in reviewing our Residents' Club's by-laws; in selecting convenors, and election of officers for the next two years. The same officers were re-elected (our officers will be Pres. Holly C., Vice Pres. Jean M., secretary-treasurer - Corinne Arsenaault). Congratulations. Our October dinner was to be held in Kinmount. We look forward to this.

A very delicious dinner was held at Kinmount Legion on October 25. A meal consisting of roast beef, mashed potatoes, vegetables, tea or coffee and that taste-teaser demon (or other choice) pie. This was all prepared by the Legion Ladies. Len Trodd in a few well chosen words thanked the ladies who responded by inviting us back (I am sure we will, Ladies).

A beautiful cake was enjoyed by us at one of our euchre games. It was presented by his wife Mabel on the occasion of Len Trodd's 80th birthday. Best wishes Len. Also, at a later evening we celebrated with Carrie and Mark Vasey their 56th wedding anniversary. May you enjoy many more years together.

We are very happy to see residents from Staannworth Terrace coming to our euchre games, namely Jerry and Ruby Schmidt and Eleanor Pye.

Recently Mel and Doris Foster, Eleanor Ferris and Lil Davidson enjoyed a bus tour through the scenic Adirondack Mountains and Lake Placid, U.S.A. A fascinating place to visit was the Olympic Sports Park where ski enthusiasts train for the World Ski jumps. There the ramps are plastic-covered, 22 feet above water, giving the athletes 50 feet above water take-off into a pool of water of 750,000 gallons and 17 feet deep. Nearby is the largest ice complex in the world. Scenery was beautiful (almost equal to Haliburton Highlands?).

Congratulations to Corinne and Hector and Corinne B. on the arrival of a new grandson and great-grandson Kyle Wrightman. Proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. R. Wrightman.

Yes, we had many young people call on us Hallo-we'en. They all looked so lovely, but who were they? Well, we guessed when mother was with them. In spite of the rain they were so welcome. Who was the wee 2 year old who stole our hearts. She was dressed as a wee Indian lass in costume? (My great-grandchild Sarah Austin).

There has been much sickness in our Court this summer and fall.

Melissa H. is at present in Lindsay Hospital.

Ivy Angliss is in Minden Hospital.

Sylvia Howard is in Kingston Hospital.

Eleanor Ferris is at her apartment here recuperating after eye surgery.

We wish you all to know you are thought of in the very warmest way, so get well soon. God bless you all.

We are glad to hear that two of our former residents are feeling much better after their operations. We wish you speedy recovery, Mary Stevenson and Mary Stata. Mary Stevenson is in the new Staannworth Terrace and Mary Stata is at her home in Kinmount.

Keep in mind!

Remember old folks are worth a fortune, with silver in their hair, gold in their teeth, stones in their kidneys, lead in their feet and gas in their stomachs.

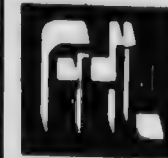

I have become a little older since I saw you last and a few changes have come into my life since then. Frankly, I have become quite a frivolous old gal. I am seeing five gentlemen every day. As soon as I wake up, Will Power helps me get out of bed. Then I

Dozens vent their steam over hospital

to tell them what their needs are and how they can be met.

Lynn Craigmyle, who chaired the public meeting, began the presentations by reading a letter submitted by the Federation of Ontario Cottagers' Associations (FOCA).

The letter, written by FOCA executive director Jerry Strickland, was addressed to Eakins and the Ministry of Health. It said the need for chronic care facilities in Haliburton had been, "studied to death," and now there is a need for action.

Haliburton County's Warden, Keith Tallman, addressed the crowd and said the "total disregard" of the Premier of Ontario and Health Minister Elinor Caplan on the issue of the expansion can no longer be accepted. He said the province's commitment was used in Eakins' platform during the last election, but still hasn't been fulfilled.

Haliburton County currently has no chronic care beds, said Tallman and it's very frustrating for the county government when the Ministry of Health ignores the local position and doesn't respond to concerns.

Tallman ended his remarks by requesting a meeting between Caplan and County Council to resolve the impasse.

Lutterworth Reeve Carol Puffer followed Tallman's statement by saying the current need for the beds has been identified and will only increase with time. She said it's important to meet the current needs now, and consider meeting future health needs with home care.

Stanhope Reeve Harry Davis, who has spearheaded a recent campaign to force the province to provide the promised funding, spoke to the audience about the informal meeting that was held with Caplan and Eakins.

He said Caplan talked about the new approach to health care in Ontario, and mentioned the need for further studies, while ignoring the studies done in 1980 and 1986 which stated the need for the beds.

The letter from then Minister of Health Murray Elstone announcing the approval of the expansion was a great pleasure, said Davis, but the issue has been "a nightmare" ever since.

Caplan also ignored the suggestion by Eakins that the government had "welched" on its commitment to Haliburton, said Davis.

While the county was waiting for the province to come through with its portion of the funding, Davis said the Ministry of Health began to set up "road blocks" to discourage county council from proceeding with the project.

Some of the roadblocks that Davis was referring to include a ministry directive saying the new unit had to be air conditioned. This decision was made after the plans for the unit had been drawn up and required the redesigning and the addition.

New project cost estimates were also submitted by the government which were substantially higher than the original figures.

The last provincial estimate for the project is $4 million and Davis said that local experienced contractors have scoffed at that price tag, unless the unit was built "with gold door knobs and gold toilet seats."

Despite the setbacks, County Council voted unanimously to continue pursuing the chronic care unit, showing a willingness to persevere and fight to the end, said Davis.

Any group that deceives the public as much as the Ministry of Health "has never heard of accountability" said Davis.

"We will not accept Mrs. Caplan's double talk," said Davis, and asked for Eakins' help in delivering the funding. "The ball is in your court."

Minden Reeve Ray Moore said that, although he agreed with much of the province's vision of health care, the 18 chronic care beds should be delivered. He also said he believes that control of the two local hospitals should be taken from St. Joseph's Hospital and given to local boards. "Let us run our own ship," he said.

George Simmons, Reeve of Snowdon Township, pointed to the unprecedented growth the area has experienced, especially in the population of senior citizens. He said the proportion of seniors in Haliburton's population is twice as high as the provincial average and referred to the recently released Municipal Housing Statement which referred to a shortage of accommodation.

Without the chronic care beds, Simmons said people requiring this service are forced to relocate out of the county separating them from family and friends. The geographical isolation of much of Haliburton's population, and the severity of the winter climate, make a centrally-located local chronic care facility a necessity, Simmons said.

Cardiff councillor Keith Murphy delivered a statement from his municipal council supporting the need for the expansion based on the growth of the senior population. He also said the facility would relieve some of the pressure placed on surrounding hospitals which now have to accommodate Haliburton's chronic care patients. "In-home care can't address all the needs," said Murphy.

Dysart et al Reeve Murray Fearrey said that although he has no formal objections to a study of Haliburton County's health care needs, he thinks the area should first have what others have; a chronic care facility.

He said Haliburton deserves the same treatment as Sarnia, which recently received approval for expansion of their hospital.

Fearrey then raised the subject of the money which had been raised by local volunteers and the money already spent on the project. "What about the $380,000 already spent on architectural fees for the project?" he asked.

If the donations to the project have to be returned, Fearrey wondered about all the receipts that have been issued for income tax purposes, considering that the tax rate has changed since 1987.

He extended an invitation to the provincial government to come back and explain the tax situation that will take place if the money has to be returned.

These comments drew a standing ovation and wild cheers from the audience.

The hospital expansion was precipitated by the government's commitment, Fearrey told the provincial representatives, "and dammit, you welched on it."

"We don't want one more thing than promised. To accept anything less is to accept unequal facilities." Another study is not the answer, Fearrey said. "Let's restore the faith of our volunteers."

The next two presentations were on behalf of the teachers and students of the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School.

Teacher Ann Varty said the staff at HHSS supported the project with a play they presented to raise money and said the decision of the province not to provide funding was a "personal and professional disappointment."

Student representatives Jeff Stamp and Jennifer Brydon told the audience that completion of the expansion is a concern for the area's young people.

Brydon said the student council had identified the chronic care unit as a deserving charity and had donated a substantial amount to the fund. "The students of HHSS want to see their money go to work."

She said construction of the facility will affect young people because it will mean that family members will not have to leave the county in search of medical care. The chronic care unit will "bring families back together," she said.

Stamp said it's possible that young people will also need treatment in the facility and said the community is growing while the health facilities are not.

"Without the chronic care facility, Haliburton can't effectively meet the needs of the people," Stamp said. He then compared the government's failure to provide funding with missed homework. "When we are late with an assignment, we suffer the consequences," said Stamp. "The government is late with its assignment and it will pay the consequences."

Dr. Karl Hartwick told the audience that local doctors support the construction of the unit. He said that in the last 49 years the area has had eight acute care beds and no chronic care beds and that number has not been increased.

Hartwick said that while more people are being kept healthier longer, there is an increase in the number of seniors with degenerative conditions who require access to chronic care facilities.

Because there are no chronic care beds in Haliburton County, Hartwick said people requiring these facilities must be sent at least 100 kilometers away. This deprives them of close contact with their families, "their most important support system." The waiting list to get into facilities can be months, or even years, said Hartwick, but in lieu of beds the province has decided to do another review first despite the fact that the need for the beds has been proven in two previous studies.

There hasn't been any significant changes in Haliburton's health care needs since the last study in 1986, said Hartwick, and the need for the 18 beds is clearer now than it was three years ago.

He said the province's true agenda seems to be containing health care costs, but cautioned that Haliburton County is fundamentally different from other areas because it doesn't have any chronic care facilities.

Chronic care must be provided in hospitals, said Hartwick, because deinstitutionalizing the patients puts a burden on the relatives.

"We believe, as physicians, we are doing our part in being pro-active. We reject the call for a study and support the call for chronic care beds."

Dale Anthes said all he had was questions, the first of which was "What the hell went wrong?"

He said the new wing of the hospital should have been built by now, but instead it hasn't even been started. Anthes also asked how the government could put the brakes on at the last moment.

Strong support also came from local service organizations.

Mabel Brannigan, President of Branch 129 of the Royal Canadian Legion, mentioned the legion's record in supporting the hospital and that elderly war veterans want assurance that as chronic care needs arise for any one of them that "the very best chronic care facilities, which they so richly deserve, are available in Haliburton."

"We, as members of Branch 129, have every right to insist the provincial government honour their commitment," said Brannigan. "No more excuses, no more studies, no more alternatives. Let's get out and complete the job we started to do."

Similar statements were made by Rotary member Kim Emmerson and Ted Saxby of the Lions Club, who each questioned the need for another study. "In business, if I pulled a caper like the provincial government pulled, I would be behind bars so fast it would make your head spin," said Saxby.

Support from the local clergy was delivered by United Church Minister Jim Crighton who said the absence of chronic care beds in the hospital has an effect on the ability to provide pastoral care.

He said the community provides remarkable support for those people experiencing crisis, but this only operates well if the person can remain in the community.

Removing people from the area to seek treatment elsewhere subjects them to feelings of isolation and loneliness which leads to anguish and depression, Crighton said. He also said the separation is hard on family members who suffer guilt, hurt and frustration.

Also represented at the meeting, and offering their support to the chronic care facilities were Haliburton County Home Support, the Haliburton Hospital Auxiliary, the hospital board and the Township of Glamorgan.

One of the more lively speeches was made by Haliburton businessman Shawn Hagerman, who gave the final presentation on behalf of the community.

"We've had enough," said Hagerman. "We need these beds."

Society will be judged, not by the monuments it builds but according to how it treats those who are least able to care for themselves; the old, the sick, children and the disabled, he said.

"When a government fails to meet the needs of the people, a basic social contract is ripped apart and it's only a matter of time before (the government) is replaced."

"Bring home all the sons and daughters of the county so we can look after them here and look after them now," said Hagerman.

Once the presentations were finished, Craigmyle introduced a guest speaker, Jack Atkinson, who was billed as a volunteer who has been heavily involved in health care planning for several years.

The message that Atkinson was trying to deliver proved to be an unpopular one, however, once it became clear that he was attempting to justify the province's new direction in health from a perspective of finance.

Skaters Kristi and Cori Barkwell and Marita Schrader performed well in Skokie Skate

Minden skaters do well in Huntsville

Huntsville hosted their annual "Skokie Skate" on November 4 and 5 and three Minden skaters took part in the competition on Saturday.

In the category of pre-junior "B" ladies Kristi Barkwell placed second in her flight, qualifying for finals. Marita Schrader placed third in her flight. Cori Barkwell placed first in her flight of pre-novice "B", qualifying for finals.

On Sunday Kristi placed eighth in her category's final, while Cori placed fourth in her category's final.

Congratulations girls, you all did a great job.

While Atkinson attempted to speak about health care in Ontario in general and referred to OHIP as a $14 billion a year business, it was evident that the audience was not interested in listening.

At one point Kim Stamp stood up in the audience and drew Atkinson's attention to her grandfather Grenville Stamp who was sitting in the front. "You tell him to his face why he can't come home and live with his family," challenged Ms. Stamp. "To me he's worth $14 billion."

Her remarks drew applause from the audience which drowned out Atkinson's attempts to speak. He cut his speech short and ended by saying, he "supports completely the need to deliver services in the community, for the community, by the community."

After the formal portion of the meeting was over, people were invited to stay and talk with Eakins and the Ministry of Health representatives.

Organizers of the meeting said they were pleased at the turn-out, and the obvious show of community support for the beds.

Many people expressed frustration that the people from the ministry didn't provide any feedback to the comments they heard.

Although Eakins said they were there to listen, not to speak one man asked, "How do we know our message will get back to Toronto?"

Eakins assured the man that we would be taking the comments back with him and said the meeting provided an excellent opportunity for the local people to express their concerns.

Redmen drop opener to Cambellford

The Haliburton Redmen hockey team dropped their home opener to Cambellford last Monday by a score of 6-4.

The Redmen's Jamie Dollo opened the scoring early in the first period, but Cambellford tied it up five minutes later.

They quickly added another goal to take the lead, and increased that lead to 3-1 by midway through the second period.

The two teams traded goals for the rest of the game, but the Redmen never managed to overtake the Cambellford team.

Brent Flood, Darren Byers and Scott Russell rounded out the Redmen's scoring but it was not enough to catch to visitors.

The game saw both teams take a fair amount of penalties, and at one point a Cambellford player was ejected for fighting.

Although missing some of the key players which anchored last year's squad, the Redmen displayed some strong team play.

Cambellford's goalie looks back to watch one of Haliburton's four goals hit the net. The Redmen lost 6-4.

Collis scores four times in Home's win over struggling Westside team

(from page 12)

The Rockcliffe's Colin Newell scored five of his team's eight goals. John Ballantyne, Andy Schollig and Dean Hewitt each added one.

HOME 7, WESTSIDE 3

Westside Jug City kept its record intact in the opening game of the night by accepting a 7-3 loss from second-place Home Hardware. Westside has yet to earn its first win.

Kim Collis did most of the damage to the Westside defence by putting the puck into the net four times. Ed Gibbons added another three just for insurance.

Jeff Campbell accounted for all three of Westside's goals.

TIMES 10, HARTWICK 7

After a brief dry spell, The Times came up with its second win of the season from Hartwick Construction. With four points to their credit, The Times now holds third place in the standings.

Andy McKenzie paved the way to this victory with four goals. Ivan Ingram, Scott Gartshore and Brian Noseworthy each added two.

Brian Shaw responded with three of Hartwick's goals while Jeff Howe added two. Kevin Hamilton and Billy Whittaker each scored one.

SCORING POWER

The Rockcliffe and Stamp Fuels have demonstrated equal scoring power so far this season by accumulating 34 goals in their four games. The Times has scored 30 goals while Hartwick has potted 29. Home Hardware has 25 goals to its credit and Westside trails the league with just 13.

On the other side of the scale, Home Hardware is proving to be the most difficult team to score against. With Kevin Smith manning the net, this team has allowed only 19 goals. Stamp Fuels, with Duane Lennie in net, has allowed 23 goals, and The Times' Terry Crowe has allowed 24. Jim Hambleton and the Rockcliffe defence have allowed 28 goals; Hartwick's Andrew (Newfer) Burk has allowed 31, and Westside's Rob Crowe has allowed 40.

Tonight's action begins at 7 p.m. when Home and Stamp Fuels face off. The Times meets the Rockcliffe at 8:30 p.m. and Westside plays Hartwick at 10 p.m.

the Minden Skating Club

The Minden Skating Club sponsored a Canpowerskate Program in Minden from Wednesday, October 11 to Saturday, October 21, 1989.

Forty-seven eager boys were put through their paces by coach David Hollows. At the end of the program each skater was tested and was given a rating of skill and time. The boys were given a copy of their marks and will also receive a crest according to their results.

LEVEL I - Group 1

Richard Brohm - Bronze; Jamie

RIDE FOR SIGHT

Thanks Again Minden!

Your hospitality, hard work and participation helped make the 1989 Ontario Ride For Sight a huge success raising $460,000 for the R.P. Eye Research Foundation. The Canada-wide total will be close to $920,000 which shows you how important Minden was to the national total.

The Ontario Ride For Sight planning committee and riders would like to thank all the citizens of the Minden area for their enthusiastic support during the past years.

With the recent development that has taken place at the fairgrounds incorporating a new ball diamond and a park-like atmosphere on the lower camping area, it has left insufficient space to fulfill our needs for the 1990 ride to perform successfully. It has become imperative for us to seek larger facilities and in doing so we have decided to move the Ride location to Trent University in Peterborough, which will give us room to expand as the need arises.

We would especially like to thank the following people, businesses and community organizations for their help:

The Council Members of the Corporation of the Townships of Anson, Hindon and Minden;

Mary Mysyk; Ivan Ingram; Brian Sisson; Brad Bradamore;

Minden Home Hardware; Minden Parks Department; Minden Agricultural Society;

The Minden Times; Minden Curling Club; The Minden Figure Skating Club;

St. Paul's Anglican Church; Minden Rotary Club; Minden Ambulance Service;

Minden O.P.P. Detachment; Minden Fire Department; The Submarine Shop;

Minden Lions Club; Minden Kinettes; Haliburton County Snowmobile Club.

New rules govern road hunting

Ministry forbids carrying loaded guns on roadways

The common scene of hunters with loaded rifles posted along roadways during deer season in the Highlands will be a thing of the past now that the Ministry of Natural Resources has implemented new regulations governing this practice.

In the Algonquin Region (except for the Districts of Parry Sound and Nipissing) no one shall possess a loaded firearm on any provincial highway, county, regional or maintained municipal road, the ministry's new regulations state.

This includes the area between the fencelines, if fenced. Along roadways that are not fenced, the regulations apply to an area within eight metres (25 feet) of either side of the travelled portion of the road, unless it is private property.

This does not include forest access roads, bush roads or open concession road allowances not maintained by the municipality.

November is volunteer month

The Heart and Stroke Foundation of Ontario has designated the month of November 1989 as its second annual volunteer recruitment month.

Volunteers with the Foundation raise funds for research and conduct education programs in the community, all with the aim of reducing heart disease and stroke — Canada's number one killer.

The dollars raised are returned to the community in the form of education programs and medical procedures which are developed through foundation-funded research. Death rates from heart disease are down by 34 per cent since 1955.

The Heart and Stroke Foundation in Haliburton County needs volunteers to contribute their expertise and time to fight heart disease and stroke, a disease which claims more than 80,000 lives in Canada each year.

A humorous look at the aging process

go to see John; then Charlie Horse comes along, and he takes a lot of my time and attention. When he leaves Arthur Rites shows up and stays the rest of the day. He doesn't like to stay in one place very long, so he takes me from joint to joint. After such a busy day, I am really tired and glad to go to bed with Ben Gay. What a life!

P.S.: The preacher came to call the other day. He said at my age I should be thinking about the hereafter. I told him, Oh, I do, all the time. No matter where I am in the parlor, in the kitchen, or down in the basement, I ask myself what am I here after?

Sled dog derby returns bigger than ever

The largest limited-class speed sled-dog derby in North America will once again take place in Minden this winter.

The sixth running of the world-class event will be held on January 13 and 14, 1990. As always, the weekend will provide a great winter outing for mushers and spectators alike.

Interest in the race is extremely high among top mushers from coast to coast on both sides of the border. The race always draws nearly 100 teams from across Ontario, Quebec, and the northern United States. But this year, says Race Governor Val Loughheed, some people are talking about flying in from California, Minnesota, and Alaska for the two-day event.

"It's very exciting for us to find so much enthusiasm for the Minden race from so many hot-beds of international mushing," she says. "We've worked hard over the past six years to make it a world-class event and this is the proof that we've succeeded."

It doesn't hurt, either, that race sponsor Martin Pet Foods of Elmira, has doubled the purse to $20,000 and added $2,000 in day money. The race has gained an excellent reputation throughout the mushing community for being well organized and providing a great run. Professional mushers are also able to win maximum points towards world ranking at the Minden race.

For all these reasons, Loughheed says the response this year is unprecedented and it may be necessary to limit the number of entries to 60 teams per class.

But there's no limit on the number of spectators who can enjoy the fun. With the Start/Finish line right in the middle of Main Street, everybody has a ring-side view of the excitement. There will be one heat each day in both the four- and eight-dog classes. At the end of Saturday's official heats, the kid-and-mutt race will provide its usual combination of informal competition and general amusement.

There will also be some new events for spectators to enjoy: ski-joring behind dogteams, a demonstration of Scandinavian kick-sledding, and a winter art exhibit featuring the work of local artists and artisans. "Catch The Drift", a new song written and recorded by local musicians, will be the theme song for the entire weekend.

The Haliburton Highlands, is well known as a summer recreational playground. The Minden Sled Dog Derby is one of several events that show off its beauties in the winter. The extensive tourist facilities of the Highlands are ready to welcome all those visiting the area for the weekend. Information on accommodation is available from the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce at their toll-free number: 1-800-461-7677.

An update on the college staff strike

One issue that has been garnering a lot of media attention is the community college strike, which, as you know, has been going on for a few weeks.

It's an issue which we are experiencing first-hand in Victoria-Haliburton with our fine community college, Sir Sandford Fleming.

I'd like to talk a little bit about this issue and the reasons why the government is taking the position it is.

One of the most important things to remember in these kinds of disputes is what impact the strike will have on students. How will the strike affect their school year? How can we reach a consensus that will keep both sides happy?

In responding to questions like these several years ago, the former government under Bill Davis passed the Colleges Collective Bargaining Act. This act was put in place to determine if there is a state of jeopardy during strikes like these at the elementary, secondary or post-secondary level of education.

In this case, and according to the terms of the act, there is a body called the College Relations Commission which monitors, on a daily basis, this kind of a dispute. If a state of jeopardy is determined by this Commission, the findings are made known instantly to the Minister of Colleges and Universities. At the time of this article, the commission had made no such finding.

I am a firm believer in the value of the free collective bargaining process. I firmly believe that the best agreement is one which will be determined by the responsible parties involved, and not by something imposed.

I personally have met with union representatives from Sir Sandford Fleming College about the issues concerned and I am hopeful that a compromise will be reached.

On a final note, I think it is important for you to know that the government is committed to a strong college system in Ontario. Despite the fact that the number of full-time students has decreased by over 500 in the past five years, provincial funding for colleges has increased about 50 per cent. In 1984, the province contributed $460 million to the Ontario college system and in 1989, the level of support has increased to $700,000 million.

Hi Kids!

Here is another puzzle for you with a word list. Look in the diagram of letters for the words given in the list. Find them by reading up, down forward, backward and diagonally. They are all in a straight line and do not skip letters. Circle the words in the diagram and cross it off the list.

It's as easy as that. Have fun!

Tea, reading and bingo among the activities at Home

Senior League

by Winnifred Barnum

The Crafts Group of Minden served the Residents a lovely tea on Thursday. It was delicious and we really thank them. One of the ladies played the piano and sang which we enjoyed immensely afterward. We continued the reading of a book we had begun to read previously. In the evening we played bingo with Nick Fomenko calling. Thanks Nick we do appreciate your doing this for us.

Terry and Norma took me to Peterborough to visit my sister May Cameron who had surgery in Civic Hospital last week. I stayed with them from Friday till Sunday. May, Roy and Jacqueline brought me home.

Last week Alice Rivers fell and Myrtle O'Halloran fell, both requiring stitches. We wish both a speedy recovery.

The sympathy of the Residents and Staff at Highland Crest goes out to the friends and relatives of Angus Coulter who passed away November 1.

Friday Doris and Linda took some of the Residents in the bus to a place called Dharma near Kinmount. University students from many parts of the world reside there. One was from Australia and he has pictures of Australia he would like to come and show us. They were served a lovely chicken dinner with all the trimmings. We thank them for their hospitality.

We were home in time for the Happy Hour. The entertainment was provided by Fred Cooper and Sinc Russell. The Residents enjoyed them greatly and thank them sincerely, also Don and Ellen Holden for their help with the Happy Hour.

The service in the Chapel Sunday night was given by Rev. John Burgess at 6:45.

Leon and Alice Jones were here Sunday night. They brought May Cooper with them to see Ruby Lewis, May's mother, Leon and Alice attended Chapel with Annie Jones.

Monday a quilt was put in the frames ready for a quilting bee on Tuesday. A nice lunch was prepared by the Residents with guidance by Linda. Tuesday we had several ladies who volunteered to quilt and for lunch about sixteen were present. We surely appreciate all the hard work on the quilt and thank them all with all our hearts.

Monday afternoon I had Claudia, my grandson's wife and her sister from Germany to visit me. Claudia's sister is returning to Germany Wednesday.

In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Marion showed us films. They were Don Messer - His Land and His Music, parts 1, 2 and 3. Thank you both very much.

Tuesday night Everett Fearrey entertained us with music and songs. Thank you both very much.

Wednesday night the Scottish Dancers were here and we had a very enjoyable evening. The dancers seem to have as good a time as we do. We thank them very much.

We have two new Residents. Their names are Mrs. Ethel Shaw and Mr. Lorne Fry. We welcome you both.

Juveniles open with hard-fought win

Sensational goaltending helped the Highlands Juveniles to a turn-around 7-3 win their first game of the season at the Minden arena last Sunday.

Gavin McKnight kept the Juveniles afloat through a dreadful first period in this hard-hitting, penalty-riddled game against Sunderland. He closed down about a dozen excellent scoring opportunities, allowing only one goal in the first frame and granting his teammates time to get their act together.

The Juveniles came out stone cold in the first period of this game. In spite of the fact that Sunderland played most of the period with one or more men cooling their heels in the penalty box, the locals were soundly outplayed.

McKnight, however, stymied the Woodville attack. And in the meantime his team started to gel.

It was as though a new team skated onto the ice in the second period. They began to control the play with crisp passing that frustrated the Woodville Club.

Scott Russell was the first to light up the Highlands side of the scoreboard with a short-handed effort. he scored again less than two minutes later to put his team into the lead, where they remained for the rest of the game.

Russell scored four times before the Highlands goaltender Gavin McKnight kept his team afloat through a stale first period night was over. Others came from Darryl Winders, Steve Freeman and Brent Flood.

"I thought we played a good game, improving the passing and checking as the game progressed," said coach Kevin Smith.

"Scotty Russell was the key to our offence as Gavin McKnight shut the door all game long."

Penalties played a big part in the outcome of this game as well. And ultimately, it was penalties that decided the game.

With seven men on suspension from their previous game, Woodville's bench was a lonely place to be. Their bench strength dwindled throughout the game as the referees tossed out several more of the players in this rough match with the Highlands club. With about a minute left on the clock and two men in the penalty box, Woodville earned another penalty that forced the end of the game. They didn't have enough men left on the bench to ice three skaters and the game was given to the Highlands team by default.

"As far as the penalties, I felt that we showed good discipline," said Smith.

However, he says there is still room for improvement in that area—three of his players were also thrown out and face one-game suspensions.

He has to be pleased with the way his team performed, though, after they shook off their opening jitters. They played a fast, aggressive game, doling out some hard hits and displaying their good puck control.

This is the first time in a few years that this area has iced a Juvenile team and last Sunday's game shows that they belong in the league. Smith says he appreciates the support from Minden Minor Hockey for allowing them to form a team at late notice.

"It was the first game my boys played together and I felt that we did quite well," he said.

Smith said he was also pleased with the fan support for this game. About 50 local fans turned out to cheer the team to its first victory. "Fan support was good and I was impressed with the turnout."

The Juveniles were scheduled to play their second game at home yesterday against Markham. On November 13, they travel to Beaverton for a game at 9 p.m. On November 20 they play in Sunderland at 9:30 p.m. Their next home game is on November 28 when they play Beaverton at 7:30 p.m.

Don't forget the Hyland Crest Christmas Tea and Bazaar November 22, 2-4 p.m. where there will be a bake table, white elephant and crafts.

Chatting with the owner of the Beaver Theatre in Minden, Lou Consy recently, and he had some very disturbing news. It seems some person has been breaking in to the shadow boxes in front of the theatre and removing the posters advertising the movies. He is very annoyed and feels that perhaps he should just close the Beaver Theatre as it appears no one cares. What kind of people would be low enough to not only steal, but destroy public property? Lou says he'd be very interested in hearing from anyone who has information on the thefts.

A good crowd attended the Club 35 Pot Luck Supper on November 3. Euchre scores were: 50 - 50 Edith Burch, most lone hands - John Klok, high man - George Alsop and others - Bill Cowen, Fran Clark and Ralph Schad. A lovely cake was served in honour of Hal Burton's 80th birthday.

Starting November 13 euchre will be held at 7:30 p.m.

Club 35 euchre on November 6 saw the following winners: 50 - 50 - Mary Bradbury, most lone hands - J. Allen and C. Woolner, high lady - Verna Sawyer, high man - John Klok and others - Olive Jones, Ken Wallace and Cliff Woolner.

Club 35 bridge on November 7 provided entertainment and first place to Elsie Fleming, second place to Clint Branning and third place to Bill Klien-schmidt. Everyone is welcome to these games which start at 1 p.m. each Tuesday.

We were very impressed by the Remembrance Day displays in the windows of some of our downtown stores, honouring those who fought and those who died during past wars. They certainly imbue the spirit of "Lest We Forget".

Winners at the St. Paul's Anglican card party on Thursday included, for most lone hands - Louella Bolyea while ladies and men's prizes went to Irene Fuhr, Vera Ward, Willard Bridgman and Jack Weekes.

Former Minden resident Kieran Graham has realized his ambition and is in training with the Canadian Armed Forces in New Brunswick. Congratulations Kieran. His mother, Pat, resides now in B.C.

Les Northey of Minden is still a patient in Toronto General Hospital. Our best wishes to you for a quick recovery Les. We look forward to seeing you home again soon.

The next meeting of the Minden Agricultural Society will be at 7:30 p.m. November 14th at St. Paul's Anglican Church.

IDEA - Individuals Desiring Easier Access, will hold their next meeting in Hyland Crest auditorium on November 15 at 1:30 p.m.

Winners at the Legion euchre on November 2 were: most lone hands - ladies - Helen Lee, men - Norm Lee; high man - Roy McDonald; high lady - Margaret Fletcher; second high lady - Jeanne Sears; second high man - Jack Chilton. Other winners were for the men - Murray MacKinnon, and for the ladies - Ruby Cartwright.

Paul Northey, son of Audrey and Les Northey of Minden, has finished his stint with the US forces in Florida and is presently living in South Hero, Vermont.

St. Anthony's Church in Haliburton will be holding their Christmas Bazaar on November 18 from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. Included in their offerings are a bake table, crafts, Christmas decorations, plants and a white elephant table. Free coffee is available as well as a food hamper for the door prize.

"WHERE THE ACTION IS"

VIA cuts make service more efficient

by Bill Scott

Benoit Bouchard, Minister of Transport, has announced the federal government's plan to make VIA Rail, the national passenger service, a leaner, more efficient operation that provides a level of service reflecting customers' needs.

Back in April, the federal government announced in its budget an intention to cut subsidies to VIA Rail. While this announcement was immediately met with vociferous criticism, the numbers bore out the government's argument. Since 184, Ottawa has spent $2.3 billion to subsidize VIA's operating losses and nearly $600 million on capital expenditures, and this in a time of steadily declining ridership. In fact, the average subsidy in 1988 reached an unreasonable and unmanageable high of $100 per passenger.

Clearly, something had to be done; and with this recent announcement, Bouchard proved he has the courage to do what is necessary, which is not always the same as what is politically popular.

In short, VIA's subsidy has been cut in half. This cut, admittedly drastic, will save taxpayers $1 billion over five years, or $160 for each family of four. In addition, VIA's workforce will be reduced by 38 per cent. This is the tough part, but the federal government's five-year plan calls for separation benefits for affected employees and will be implemented in full compliance with all collective agreements and legal requirements. The cuts mean some routes will be trimmed, others cut.

The restructured rail network, to be in place by January 15, 1990, will be approximately 51 per cent smaller than the current network. The Eastern Transcontinental Service will run six times a week; the Western Transcontinental Route will run three times a week; and the Rocky Mountaineer will run once a week from late May to early October.

Seven main corridor routes, such as Montreal - Ottawa, will remain; and eight remote routes, such as Jasper - Prince Rupert, will continue to serve truly isolated communities where rail is the only transportation option.

Fares will increase to market levels in order to maximize revenue and minimize the need for further government subsidy, which will be $350 million per year.

Naturally, making cuts in our national rail service is difficult business. But the measures being taken are intended to prevent erosion in our rail service, not to cause it. A leaner, more competitive VIA Rail will be better able to serve Canadians who choose to travel by train, and at the same time avoid VIA's recent crippling drain on the taxpayers.

Several factors to hamper tourism: Minister

A slowing economy, strengthening dollar, reduced federal transfer payments, and the imposition of a federal Goods and Services Tax all combine to spell trouble for Ontario's tourism industry, hints Ontario Tourism Minister Ken Black.

Black, who is the MPP for Muskoka, was the guest speaker at the annual meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce on November 1. He provided an upbeat speech to the large gathering at the PineStone Inn, but briefly touched on several "challenges" facing the tourism industry in this province.

"This is a different and challenging time in government, in particular in Tourism," he said. Over the past seven years Ontario's economy has faced significant growth, said Black. But don't expect that to last. He predicted that in the next two years growth will be at a slower pace.

Pressures on the federal government to reduce the national debt are bound to cause a spin-off effect, cutting into the money that the province has available to spend, he said. Thirty five cents out of every dollar collected through federal taxation is used to service the debt, he said. "We have to recognize that (Finance Minister Michael) Wilson has to make some difficult decisions."

As examples of how federal restraint affects provincial spending, Black noted that the federal government has cut already cut back on its transfer payments for hospitals and for tourism spending.

As a result a result of the slowing economy and federal cutback, Black said the province is facing two strains—fewer taxes and less transfer payments.

Factors that will affect tourism in particular are the strengthening Canadian dollar, aggressive tourism marketing from the U.S. and the GST, he said.

When the federal Goods and Services Tax takes effect, the tourism industry will suffer the most, he said. People will have less money to spend and face inflation at the same time. Tourist facilities will be forced to increase their fees, which will result in them being less competitive with markets outside the country, said Black.

"The whole purpose of imposing a Goods and Services Tax at this time doesn't present a pleasant prospect."

In spite of all this, he was optimistic about the future of the Highlands as a tourist area. Saying tourism is "the industry of the 20th century... the wave of the future," Black said the Haliburton Highlands area is in a better position to capitalize on that than many parts of the province.

Located less than three hours from the huge population base of Toronto, Haliburton is ideally placed, he said. The population of Toronto stands at about three million and will be growing to about five million people, he said. In addition, there are another 17 million visitors to the city each year.

With careful marketing, Haliburton could cash in on this advantage, said the tourism minister.

Comparing Haliburton to his home riding of Muskoka, Black said the Highlands is in a better position to meet the future challenges of this industry. "In many ways Haliburton can look to the future, whereas Muskoka is at the peak of its growth." Haliburton has the advantage of still being able to plan for the future, he said.

Planning and marketing to meet specific target groups will be the key to success in the growingly competitive tourism industry, he said.

Marketing strategies are the future of tourism, said the tourism minister. Tourist areas have to target a market and target their spending to meet that market.

Demographics show there are a lot of older people living in the province. Eleven per cent of the population of Ontario is over age 65. By the year 2000, this will grow to 20 per cent, said Black. This is an example of one group that could be courted.

Seniors are "healthier and wealthier than at any time in the history of Canada," he said. "We have to realize this when planning."

Because Canada can't compete dollar-wise with the tourism marketing from the U.S., Black said it is important to zero in on specific groups, whether it be seniors or people who love to go bass fishing.

Canada has a cleaner environment, cleaner water, less crime and fewer drug problems, he said. All of this should be promoted to show that destinations in this country have an advantage over their counterparts in the U.S.

Black also noted that the rugged, back-woods vacations are no longer as appealing as they once were. "Roughing it is not so attractive any more." Instead, people are looking to "soft wilderness" as their choice for vacations.

Haliburton is ideally suited to meet this market, he said. The area's proximity to Toronto makes it an easy trip from the city and more and more resorts in the area are tailoring their facilities to provide comfort in a wilderness setting, he said.

ONTARIO GOVERNMENT NOTICE PUBLIC REVIEW OF THE DRAFT MINDEN TIMBER MANAGEMENT PLAN

The Minden District of the Ministry of Natural Resources has prepared a draft Timber Management Plan for the Crown lands of the district, shown shaded on the map below. The current management plan will expire on March 31, 1990.

This draft plan will be available for the public to review at the Minden District Office of the Ministry of Natural Resources, from December 15, 1989 to January 15, 1990, during normal office hours.

The draft plan, once approved, will govern all forestry activities to be carried out on this area during the five years following March 31, 1990, including logging, reforestation and Timber stand improvement work. The draft plan also contains details on calculations of sustainable harvest levels and on modifications to logging practices in order to protect other Crown land interests and environmental values.

This is the third stage of public input into the draft plan. At this stage you may review the draft plan, prior to its approval, to note how earlier public submissions and comments have been considered in the plan. Persons who have concerns regarding the draft Timber Management Plan are asked to submit their written comments to the District Manager, Ministry of Natural Resources, Minden, Ontario, K0M 2K0, by January 15, 1990.

Following the public review, the final plan will be available for a public inspection prior to its implementation. This inspection period will run from March 1 to March 30, 1990. Persons who have serious objections to the final plan may seek an individual environmental assessment under the Environmental Assessment Act.

Additional information on the draft plan, its contents and the public review can be obtained by contacting Peter Hynard, Forester, at the Minden District office or by telephoning (705) 286-1521.

One of the 'stars' of show will be a Minden skater

Submitted by
the Minden Skating Club

Go see the stars.

On Friday, December 15 "Champions On Ice" will be returning to the Peterborough Memorial Centre. We are excited to announce that Kurt Browning will be appearing in the Peterborough performance. Kurt was the 1989 World Champion, capturing the gold and being the first skater to ever perform a quadruple jump in competition.

Along with our Canadian skaters - Karen Preston, Michael Slipchuk, Landry and Johnson, Hough and Ladret, McDonald and Mitchell, we will be excited to be able to watch Grzegorz Filipowski of Poland, who was the Bronze medalist at 1989 Worlds.

The excitement will be even greater for our own skater, Marita Schrader, as she will also be skating in this fabulous ice show. A criteria was given regarding the age and test level of the skater who would participate. Marita's name was drawn from those meeting the qualifications. Congratulations, Marita, we look forward to seeing you perform with the other young skaters.

Ticket information and orders can be obtained at Leitha's Sweets and Treats.

VIOLENCE MEN'S GROUP
In Haliburton, there is a group counselling program to assist men, at no cost to them, in dealing with behaviours that physically, mentally or emotionally hurt the ones they love. This is a confidential service that does not judge or condemn, but helps you and those around you live a less troubled life. For information, referral and support, leave a message at 457-1088. tfn.

BIRTHS

LARCADE: Mr. and Mrs.
Dante Larcade have great pleasure in announcing the birth of their son
ALEXANDRE
on Wednesday, November 8, 1989 weighing 7 lbs. in Kingston, Ontario.

CLEMENTS, Gary and Gayle announce with joy the birth of their son

MATTHEW WILLIAM on November 1, 1989 weighing in at an impressive 8 lbs. 2 oz.
Big sister Danielle has decided that a baby brother isn't too bad after all. Grandparents
Don and Anne Irving of Huntsville and Alec and Vi Clements of Bracebridge are thrilled with their new grandson. Our thanks to Dr.
Dawson and to Dr. Johnston and the wonderful nursing staff at Soldier's Memorial Hospital in Orillia.

CARD OF THANKS

I wish to thank everyone for their kindness, cards, phone calls, best wishes & prayers
while I was in Toronto
General Hospital. We're home
now—stop in for a coffee!

Angus Cameron

I wish to extend heartfelt thanks to all relatives, friends, pall-bearers, Gordon A. Monk
Funeral home & Rev. Ed Moll for their kindness during the loss of my husband Arthur E. (Ed) Shaw. Special thanks to Dr. Hick, Dr. Fuller, Dr.
Dawson, and all nurses and staff of Minden hospital for their special care and to the Red Cross Homemakers and V.O.N.

Ethel Shaw

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank our family, friends and relatives for making our 50th wedding anniversary a memorable occasion. Also the ladies who supplied the food and for the cards and gifts we received. God bless you all.
